

Gals Institute Welcomes Jerrica Vaughn!

Jerrica is a board-certified Pediatric Nurse Practitioner and Pediatric Primary Care Mental Health Specialist. She earned her Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Purdue University. Jerrica specializes in the treatment of anxiety, depression and ADHD in children and adolescents ages 5-21. Jerrica believes that medications (when appropriate) in conjunction with therapy can be a powerful tool to improve mental health and get your child back to functioning. Jerrica's extensive training, passion for mental health, as well as personal experience as a wife and mother have prepared her to provide trustworthy and compassionate care for your child.

Do you have concerns that your child or adolescent may have ADHD?

Approximately 11% of today's youth have ADHD, a neurodevelopmental disorder that causes difficulty with paying attention, controlling impulse behaviors, or hyperactivity. Symptoms continue into adulthood in more than three-quarters of cases. ADHD can cause significant problems at school, home and with friends. Treatment for ADHD can improve quality of life, academic performance, and relationships.

Historically, ADHD has been diagnosed using complicated and potentially biased evaluation forms. The FDA has approved an online tool, called QbCheck. The QbCheck is a computerized test that involves motion tracking systems and computerized tasks that require continuous attention and impulse control. This online test that can be administered from ages 6-60 provides specific and measurable data to aid in the diagnosis of ADHD.

Gals Institute has begun administering the QbCheck! If you are interested in having your child tested for ADHD, please contact us! info@gals.institute or call the clinic at 262-337-9770.
